Spiritual defeat need not be

Just a Thought

Many Christians find themselves under intense spiritual warfare. They often question what they have done wrong. But, in reality, they should ask themselves what they have done right!!! Dr. Chuck Lawless wrote on thirteen truths about spiritual warfare. I believe these insights can and will assist us in properly dealing with spiritual warfare.

The Bible is not a book about the devil. The Bible is about God. The truth matters, as many people interested in spiritual warfare give the devil more attention than the Bible does. That approach simply distorts the biblical picture of warfare

The enemy is real. Paul was clear that we wrestle against principalities and powers (Ephesians 6:12). Peter knew an enemy seeks to devour us like a roaring lion (1 Peter 5:8). The battle is not ours. David recognized that when he fought Goliath (1 Samuel 17:47). Jehaziel reminded Jehoshaphat of that truth (2 Chronicles 20:15). God is our warrior (Exodus 15:3). He always has been and always will

People are not the enemy. Paul was equally clear that we do not wrestle against flesh and blood. Even when people frustrate and anger us, they are not the enemy. When we remember this truth, we will love, shepherd, and pray for people differently.

Leaders are primary target for the enemy. That truth should not surprise us. The enemy knows that when leaders fall, followers are wounded in the process. I doubt I need to spend time listing the prominent Christian leaders who have fallen in the last few

The enemy strikes at marriages. Satan sought to divide Adam and Eve (Adam turned on Eve and blamed her after their sin in Genesis 3), and he has attacked marriages since then. When marriages are destroyed, their witness to the Gospel (Ephesians 5:25) gets distorted - and, future generations are harmed in the process.

Self-dependence is evidence of the enemy's work. Satan is not alarmed by church leaders who operate in their own ability. All of our training and experience is no match for the subtle schemes of the ene-

Hiddenness is a warning signal. The enemy often operates in the darkness. He delights when we sin and choose to keep our sin in the secret places of our lives. In no way does he want us to confess our Leaders often fight their battles alone. Sometimes leaders must stand alone but too often they have no close team around them to help them win spiritual battles. Loners are by nature vulnerable to attack and Sometimes leaders take on the enemy with too little prayer. Self-confident leaders are like Jesus' disciples who tried to cast out a demon without praying (Mark 9:14-29). They do not pray, pray only superficially, or pray only after the battle has been lost.

Even the best leaders may find themselves in non-stop warfare by God's design. The Apostle Paul was God's uniquely called apostle, but still he dealt with an ongoing thorn in the flesh (2 Corinthi-
